The Law of Attraction Unveiled

If you're like me, the Law of Attraction and all things "Secret" are endlessly fascinating. I could explore and experiment with them for months, if not years, on end. Having already done that, though, I'm going to cut straight to the chase with this guide to exactly how the process works.

In a nutshell, the Law of Attraction is a fancy way of saying that what you focus on is what you end up getting. We've all had times where we've dreaded the thought of running out of money, only to find bills suddenly seem to be pouring in. On the flip side, though, have you ever had a thought where you've gone "wow I'd love to have one of those", and a few months or years later actually ended up with one? It's the same principle at work. There's a bit more to it, but that's the basics.

Let me start, though, with a warning. Please, please, PLEASE remember to be very careful what you ask for. I've had no end of disasters and funny stories from not quite thinking through what I was asking: from things as little as trying to use the Law of Attraction to help with weightloss (visualising my trousers loose around my hips I ended up miles away from home with both catch AND zipper broken, finding dark corners all day so I could hike them back up again) through to misadventures that landed me in hospital. It really is important that you consider what you want carefully, and make sure you spend time working out how you ask for it so that there's the least chance of it, shall we say, coming true in an unintended way. ❖

Manifesting without tools

Strictly speaking, you don't actually need anything but your ability to visualise and a developed ability to maintain focus to use this law, but over the last 20 years or so, I've tried a lot of different things, online and off, to see how they helped. Most of the good ones do cost, but even if you're on a really tight budget, you'll still get enough information out of this guide to start magnetising what you want. I'd guess if that's your situation it would be money, right?

Ironically, you're already probably magnetising in that area. Tight budget usually means you've got your focus firmly on money: specifically, feeling the lack of it. So, the more time and energy you put into thinking about how little you have, the more you'll experience having little. It's counter-intuitive, but I'd suggest if that's your situation, DON'T start with trying to manifest money. You've got a lot of programming and experiences already in the way, which will be obstacles to turning that focus around. Pick something else you can 'practise' on that you don't have so much emotional attachment towards.

My first experience (that I remember) with using the Law of Attraction was while I was a University student with virtually no money. There was a new gadget out (this was about 20 years ago) called an 'Epilady'. I hated shaving my legs, so I wanted one. Really, really badly. Every time the ad came on TV I watched it thinking how great it would be to have one and use it myself. Imagine – only having to do my legs once a week or less! Still, I didn't really believe I had any chance of getting one. I was just too broke.

Then I was at a community markets one day, and saw one being sold off for half of the store price. I still didn't have enough, but being a very alternative 'new age' marketplace I connected it with the idea that maybe there was some way I could get it without having to raise the full price – a swap, or something. I had that idea playing around in my mind that day, but when I went to sleep, forgot about it and never did anything more.

But the magic had happened. I had wanted it, felt the emotional charge of what it would be like while I visualised myself having it, started believing that I could have it, and then let the idea go. That's the sequence... almost...

The final piece in the manifestation puzzle was when I went for a walk one evening. For some reason, I got the feeling to go in a totally different direction to the one I usually took. A room mate was with me. As we walked these 'new' streets, he pointed out a house where someone must have just moved out. There were boxes and bins piled high on the side of the road, and the house was obviously empty. He decided to go through and see if there was anything he wanted (you guessed it, he was a student too) and after going through a box, passed it to me to put down somewhere else.

There, right on the top of the box, was an Epilady. It was even still in its own box. I opened it, hardly believing what I was seeing, but it couldn't have been used more than once, if at all – perfectly clean, all the spare parts right in there where they were meant to be. I couldn't even find any hairs in it! I sent up an immediate prayer of gratitude, and the 'coincidences' haven't stopped happening since.

That's the final part of the puzzle. Once you've got the picture clear in your mind, and put it 'out there' that you want it to manifest, you have to be receptive to following those stray impulses that seem to come out of nowhere – the 'still small voice within' they talk about, which is a version of intuition. Those are what will put you where you need to be, connect you with who you need to know, or piece the puzzle together to make the magic happen.

I should mention at this point that this whole process, from wishing to finding, took a little bit longer than 12 months. While I had heard of the Law of Attraction, this was long before "The Secret", and I wasn't consciously trying to follow any particular process. If I'm brutally honest, I had no idea what I was doing and most of it was sheer dumb luck.

Since then, I've spent years working back through the process, clarifying exactly what was part of it, what wasn't, reading through libraries of books and courses figuring out exactly what I had done right, and how to do it again. Then I went on to test out all the tools and tricks I could find to make it work faster, better and more reliably. (Some of my favourites are listed to the right.)

I'm in the process of putting it all down into a series of free reports and a cheat sheet you can use to follow the process step by step for yourself. Turn over for details of how you can get them delivered instantly to your email inbox: no charge, no obligation, no catch. ❖

DID YOU KNOW?

There is a Goddess devoted to Manifestation Magic in the Irish Celtic mythology?

Known as Anu, Danu, or Dana, she's the 'mother goddess' and Celtic Goddess of Plenty. Also associated with the moon, air, fertility and prosperity, she's linked with the cycles of the earth and seasons. After the Christian tradition moved in, she's believed to have been incorporated into their beliefs as St Anne.

A PERSONAL LETTER TO YOU FROM THE AUTHOR:

Who else wants to learn the steps to take (and mistakes to avoid) starting out with the Law of Attraction?

More Than A Decade Of Perfecting And Refining Techniques Is Now Yours For The Asking!

Dear Fellow Traveller,

I've spent many years having teachers placed in my path just as I've needed them, and they've helped me immensely in taking my journey this far. Now, though, I feel it's time for me to give something back for all the help I've received, paying it forward to anyone who wants it. I'm in the process of writing it all down, and offering it to the world as my gift and thank you. No cost. No obligation. No catch.

I'm not going to pretend I'm a certified expert, or the only person who can possibly give you this information. In terms of my own story, it's true, but what I've learnt has been gathered from dozens of different sources already available out there, some of which you no doubt already know. Yes, I've put it together with my own unique understanding as things 'clicked' and I was led to the next teacher, but I don't claim to pretend I hold any profound secrets that nobody else has stumbled on.

The reality is, this stuff's been around way too long for there to truly be any 'secrets' left! There are only different perspectives, and if there's one thing I've learnt, is that the same message can sound totally wrong put one way, and lead you to giant leaps of inspiration in another. We're all different, and the search isn't for truths that have been hidden, it's for explanations that make sense – and that's a very personal thing.

I choose to value your intuition by leaving any 'sales spin' out of this page, and simply share with you what I have to offer. If you've been led here, then maybe something I'm sharing will help you take the next step in your own journey, but you're the only one who can tell that... Just like you're the only one that can judge whether my words and experiences click or resonate with you. They may not, and that's fine, because that's part of what makes this such a wonderfully interesting and diverse world.

The gifts I've chosen to share are listed on the right, but a word of warning: my learning is an ongoing process, and I'll be updating or changing things fairly constantly as I gain new perspectives. So, if one of the titles has changed, or there's something I've added in that you weren't expecting, my apologies in advance. I hope it means you end up getting more, learning better or having some extra 'a-ha moments' of your own.
